www.loc.gov/rr/rarebook/. Collection handle:

www.hdl.loc.gov/loc.rbc/collrbc.rb000008

The Library has scanned all available broadsides in full color and has upgraded the text encoding and programming code to bring it in line with current practices.

The Continental Congress Broadside Collection (253 titles) and the Constitutional Convention Broadside Collection (21 titles) contain 274 documents relating to the work of Congress and the drafting and ratification of the Constitution. Items include extracts of the journals of Congress, resolutions, proclamations, committee reports, treaties, and early printed versions of the United States Constitution and the Declaration of Independence. Most broadsides are one page in length; others range from 1 to 28 pages. A number of these items contain manuscript annotations not recorded elsewhere that offer insight into the delicate process of creating consensus. In many cases, multiple copies bearing manuscript annotations are available to compare and contrast.

U.S. Congress.

Historic U.S. Congressional documents in the collection A Century of Lawmaking for a New Nation (memory.loc.gov/ammem/amlaw/) The current release features the addition of a number of new titles, updates of existing ones, and a redesign of the site itself. The new titles include the twenty-five-volume Letters of Delegates to Congress (1774-89) published by the Library of Congress, the thirty-eight-volume American State Papers (1789-1838), the six-volume Revolutionary Diplomatic Correspondence, Joint Resolutions of the Senate (1824-73), and the first three volumes of the Congressional Record (1873-75). Other recent additions to existing titles include bills of the House (1799-1811), and the Journals of the House and Senate along with the Statutes at Large from the 43d Congress. The site's new design includes a more consistent layout for describing and presenting the materials, a page of selected bibliographies, and links to related information on the Internet.
